The Skin of Our Teeth is a comedy about George Antrobus, his wife and two children, and their utility maid, Lily Sabina, all of Exelsior, New Jersey. George Antrobus is John Doe or George Spelvin or you – the average American at grips with destiny, sometimes sour, sometimes sweet. The Antrobuses have survived fire, flood, pestilence, the seven year locusts, the ice age, the black pox and the double feature, a dozen wars and as many depressions. They have run the gamut, are as durable as radiators, and look upon the future with disarming optimism. Alternately bewitched, befuddled and becalmed, they are the stuff of which heroes are made – heroes and buffoons. They are the true offspring of Adam and Eve, victims of all the ills that flesh is heir to. They have survived a thousand calamities by the skin of their teeth, and Mr. Wilder’s play is a tribute to that indestructibility.
