We all know that Music Education is Fun, but ...

Did You Know...

Music Instruction Improves Academic Achievement?

- ❖ The College Board reports that after four years of coursework in music, students averaged 49 points higher on the combined verbal and math SAT scores.
- ❖ In a UCLA study, students who took music lessons in grades 8-12 showed gains in math scores as well as a 40% improvement in reading, history, geography and social skills.
- ❖ Playing a musical instrument strengthens spatial-temporal reasoning which helps students to excel in proportional math skills – an important factor for success in fields such as engineering, robotics, design, statistics, construction, art and genetics.
- ❖ Music instruction develops your awareness and discrimination of sounds, which are important skills for success in reading.
- ❖ Music improves memory and listening skills, by enhancing the development of our brain's memory systems.
- ❖ Music training increases creativity and visual imagery skills.
- ❖ Learning to play an instrument connects, develops, and refines the entire neurological and motor brain systems.
