STUDY SKILLS FOR STUDENTS

- ❖ Plan study time each night. Use this time to study for tests or simply to review your notes from class.
- ❖ Study difficult subjects first. In general, we tend to do what we like first; however, classes we find more challenging require more energy.
- ❖ Each person has a best time during the day at which he or she learns best. Be aware of your best time and use it.
- ❖ Don't get too comfortable. Keep your mind and your body alert. DO NOT STUDY IN BED!
- ❖ Find a quiet place to study. Whether you are studying at home or in the library, you want to find a quiet atmosphere that makes it possible to get a lot done.
- ❖ Use study groups. It is often helpful to study and review materials with others.

SO MUCH TO DO, SO LITTLE TIME! MANAGEMENT TOOLS

- * Use a calendar to keep track of deadlines, tests, papers, and assignments as well as study time.
- * Make a to do list to keep track of everything you need to get done and cross each item off the list as you complete it.
- * Use a study schedule. Organize your study time for each day and week.
- * Determine how much time you need to study for each subject.
- * Prioritize the demands on your time, such as school, work, friends, and family.

¡¡BIENVENIDOS A HUNTINGTON HIGH SCHOOL!!!

El Departamento de Orientación quisiera aprovechar esta oportunidad para dar la bienvenida a todos los estudiantes nuevos a Huntington High School. TÉCNICAS DE ESTUDIO PARA ESTUDIANTES

- ❖ Planifica el tiempo de estudio cada noche. Aprovecha este tiempo para estudiar para exámenes o simplemente para revisar tus notas.
- ❖ Estudia primero los temas difíciles. En general, queremos hacer lo que nos gusta en primer lugar; sin embargo, las clases que encontramos más desafiantes requieren más energía.
- ❖ Cada persona tiene su mejor momento durante el día en el que él o ella aprende mejor. Se consciente de tu mejor momento y úsalo.
- ❖ No te pongas muy cómodo (a). Mantén tu mente y tu cuerpo alerta. ¡NO ESTUDIES EN LA CAMA!
- ❖ Encuentra un lugar tranquilo para estudiar. Si estas estudiando en casa o en la biblioteca, encuentra un lugar tranquilo.
- ❖ Utiliza grupos de estudio. A menudo es útil estudiar y revisar materiales con otros donde puedas ser productivo(a).

TANTO QUE HACER, TAN POCO TIEMPO

- * Usa un calendario para anotar fechas importantes, cuando te tocan exámenes, papeles y tareas, también puedes anotar y separar tiempo para estudiar
- * Haz una lista de todo lo que necesitas hacer y puedes ir poniendo un visto check a cada elemento de la lista a medida que lo completas.
- * Utiliza un horario de estudio. Organiza tu tiempo de estudio para cada día y semana.
- * Determina cuánto tiempo necesitas para estudiar para cada materia.
- * Haz prioridad de las demandas de tu tiempo, como escuela, trabajo, amigos y familia.

Los informes de progreso se publicarán en el portal en las siguientes fechas:

For information on Division II, view the Division II academic requirements flyer.

TEST SCORES

If you plan to attend an NCAA Division I school, use the sliding scale to review the corresponding test score and core-course GPA (minimum 2.3) you will need to meet Division I qualifier standards.

For both Divisions I and II, a combined SAT score is calculated by adding critical reading and math subscores. An ACT sum score is calculated by adding English, math, reading and science subscores. You may take the SAT or ACT an unlimited number of times before you enroll full time in college. If you take either test more than once, the best subscores from each test are used for the academic certification process.

More information regarding the impact of COVID-19 and test scores can be found at on.ncaa.com/COVID19_Fall2022.*

CORE-COURSE LIST

You should check to see if your high school has a list of NCAA-approved core courses. No core-course list means courses taken from that high school will not count for NCAA eligibility. If your high school does not have a list, you risk being ineligible to play in college.

ONLINE COURSES/ NONTRADITIONAL

Nontraditional courses are taught online or through distance learning, hybrid/blended, independent study, individualized instruction, correspondence or similar means.

These types of courses may be acceptable for use in the NCAA initial-eligibility certification process; however, it is important to make sure the nontraditional program has been approved and appears on the high school's list of NCAA-approved core courses.

BE AHEAD OF THE GAME

- » If you want to get ahead of the game, you need to register with the NCAA Eligibility Center before your freshman/ninth year of high school.
- » After you complete six semesters of high school, it is important for you to ask your counselor from each high school you have attended to upload an official transcript to your Eligibility Center account. A six-semester transcript must be submitted in order to have a preliminary certification completed.

Can High School Extracurriculars Get You Into College?

What's a high school student to do? After a full day of classes, the temptation for many might be to head home and kick back for a while in front of the tube before taking time for dinner and homework. But is this really the best they can do? Should teens take on more?

The indications are (and research supports) that teens who are involved in extracurricular activities actually do better than their non-involved peers in a number of areas. Instead of test scores falling and sleep being sacrificed because a student is taking on more activities, the opposite is true. Most studies show that students who are involved in extracurricular activities excel above their peers academically. But that's not all.

According to a study published in Education, the benefits of teen participation in extracurricular activities go well beyond just filling up an already-busy schedule and having another line to add to the college application.

Benefits include having a sense of team spirit and belonging, personal pride and an understanding of the value of fair play, an increased sense of honesty and trustworthiness, and, importantly, the prevention of drug and substance abuse – among others. The study states "Repeated records of high school students across the United States have shown that those students who become heavily involved in extracurricular activities tend to be model students and seldom get involved in delinquency and crime."

Involvement in extracurricular activities builds personal life skills. Melinda Voss, Public Relations Director for the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities System, says "[Extracurricular activities] can help them by developing some leadership skills, some time management skills; it's a good way to explore areas of interest that might lead to careers, so it might help them to select an area of study in college."

Of concern to many students is how involvement in extracurricular activities can positively impact his or her college application. Certainly, a student's involvement does show college officials that the person is more likely to be a balanced and well-rounded individual. But if a student is involved in a host of activities just to pad their application, administrators can tell, and aren't impressed.

Walter Wolff, Ph.D., Admissions Director at the University of Minnesota at Mankato, cautions against placing too much emphasis on extracurricular activities. He says, "As far as the actual application review goes, generally speaking we look more at their academics. On our campus, we take a look at the academic preparedness of the students, then look at the likelihood of long-term success. In the second review process, if a person is not automatically admitted, [involvement in extracurriculars] may matter more." And Voss adds, "At the universities here, GPA is certainly more important than extracurriculars."

Voss also stresses that many 2-year colleges require only a high-school diploma for admission – and the majority of high school students in the US who pursue post-secondary education do so at community or state colleges. So, even for students who haven't had much if any involvement in extracurricular activities, college can still be an option for them.

That being said, for students who are trying to get into Harvard or other highly selective colleges and universities, involvement in extracurriculars is much more important.

What are your child's extracurricular options? Here's a list of activities that can add to your teen's high school experience...and beyond:

Athletics

From soccer to the swim team to tennis club, there is something for everyone when it comes to sports. And the benefits of being involved in athletics go beyond just improved physical fitness and health. Students learn teamwork and gain confidence, leadership and endurance from sports – all skills that can help the new college student succeed under the pressures of college life.

Performing Arts

Dance, drama and music – these can offer a much-needed creative outlet, as well as improving a student's academic standing. Several studies have shown that students who are involved in the arts score higher SAT scores than their non-involved peers – and the more arts classes, the higher the scores.

Academics on the side

For students who just can't get enough academics, the math or science team, the debate club, or even time spent tutoring can add valuable knowledge and experience. Building strong core skills, especially in areas the student plans to pursue further in college, shows a love of the subject and mental discipline that will be valuable assets when digging into more advanced study.

So, encourage your teen to get involved – not just because of college prospects, but also for his own personal development. It is sure to make for a happier and healthier teen.

So much more than a score.

Frequently Asked Questions

WHY SHOULD STUDENTS TAKE THE PSAT/NMSQT OR THE PSAT 10?

The Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT®) and the PSAT™ 10 offer great preparation for the SAT®, a globally recognized test that can help students stand out to colleges. Historically, students who took the PSAT/NMSQT scored higher on the SAT, on average, than those who didn't take the test. The PSAT/NMSQT and PSAT 10 not only help measure students' individual progress, but they also connect students to valuable scholarships and college readiness resources. Students who take the PSAT/NMSQT or the PSAT 10 will get an online score report at studentscores.collegeboard.org. They will receive an overall test score (320–1520) as well as individual section scores, test scores, cross-test scores, and subscores. Students will also get information on how to improve their academic skills.

Students who take the PSAT/NMSQT in their third year of high school (11th grade) and meet other program entry requirements may enter the National Merit® Scholarship Program conducted by National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC®). (For more information, visit NMSC's website at www.nationalmerit.org).

Students may also qualify for other programs such as the National Hispanic Recognition Program. For more information, see your school counselor.

WHO SHOULD TAKE THE PSAT/NMSQT?

Typically, students take the PSAT/NMSQT in grades 10 and 11. Taking the test allows them to start improving skills and knowledge needed for success in college and career. Students can take the test only once a year, but there is no limit to how many years a student may participate. It's important that 11th-grade students take the PSAT/NMSQT to enter the National Merit Scholarship Program and to get SAT practice.

HOW SHOULD STUDENTS PREPARE FOR THE TEST?

The best way students can prepare is by taking challenging courses and becoming familiar with the test and its format. Students should review the PSAT/NMSQT Student Guide or PSAT 10 Student Guide, along with a practice test for the test they are taking, to better understand all the directions and become familiar with the question types. Students who take the test can go to satpractice.org for free, personalized practice from Khan Academy® to help them score their very best. They can use this practice to prepare for the SAT, PSAT/NMSQT, or PSAT 10.

WHAT IS STUDENT SEARCH SERVICE, AND SHOULD STUDENTS CHOOSE TO PARTICIPATE?

When students take the PSAT/NMSQT or PSAT 10, they're asked if they would like to participate in Student Search Service®, a service that helps high school students hear from colleges and scholarship programs that may be a good match. If students choose to participate, they allow colleges, universities, scholarship programs, and educational opportunity organizations to send information about the educational and financial aid opportunities they offer. Students who opt in to Student Search Service will increase their access to millions of dollars in combined annual scholarship awards. The service is free to the student, but colleges and other educational organizations pay College Board a license fee to use the service. College Board uses these license fees to support its mission-driven work. Student information is strictly monitored and secure, and individual test scores are never shared with any outside entity.

WHEN WILL STUDENTS RECEIVE SCORES?

Score reports will be available online for educators and students in December for the PSAT/NMSQT. For the PSAT 10, online scores will be available in April or May.

	PSAT/NMSQT Dates	Important Reminders
2021	September	Students should review the PSAT/NMSQT Student Guide and take the practice test inside. At satpractice.org , students can access free, personalized, online practice that can be used to prepare for the PSAT/NMSQT and the PSAT 10.

HUNTINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Parent Suggestions for a Successful Transition to High School

1. Be involved in your child's academic program of study. Make sure that your child is challenged and supported by courses now that will help meet future goals.
2. Get your child involved in a positive activity – but do not overextend. Research says that students, who are involved in an activity, club, sport, music, etc., are much more likely to have a positive high school experience and get better grades than students who are not involved. Have your child attend the Homecoming, Playfest, Drama and Musical Productions, Concerts, Dances and Games.
3. Know your child's friends. Research says that when a teenager is faced with critical decision, the influence of peers (positive or negative) and parents/families make the difference.
4. Attend Back to School Night.
5. All teenagers (including straight A students) need proper supervision. This supervision includes online supervision and supervision of technology. Remember, good kids make mistakes too. Your child should always know that you love him/her, but make sure he/she knows your expectations. Know where your child is and who they are with all the time.
6. Get to know your child's teachers and school counselor. Stay in positive contact with the teachers and don't be afraid to ask for help. Remember that e-mail is a great tool for dealing with more difficult issues. Don't fight the small battles for your child. Keep things in perspective.
7. Get involved in school yourself. The most successful students I have seen are the ones whose parents are at the school, attend functions, join the PTSA or some other group. In a sense, these parents are the one who are in the know, and they use this information to support their children and the school.

9th Grade

GETTING READY FOR COLLEGE

The 9th grade is a great time for preparing for college. The following are some ways you can help your child on the right path towards college:

- Students who participate in honors math and English classes are better prepared for success in college later on. Monitor your child's progress by checking all progress reports and report cards and meet with the teacher or school administrator if your child is having difficulty or is placed in a class that is too easy.
- Encourage involvement in activities in school and the community throughout the year. Church groups, sports, or scouting are great ways to develop leadership skills. Encourage your child to do volunteer work. Remember that all grade 9 students must complete 10 hours of community service.
- Start an "Activities Record". Include all of your child's activities, volunteer work, honors, and awards. This will help develop a scholarship portfolio for your student.
- Discuss internet use. Remind your child that he/she should not post anything inappropriate online because social networking sites are often reviewed by future employers and college admissions personnel.
- Get to know your child's friends and monitor free time activities. If you see a change in your child's attitude or schoolwork, talk with the school counselor and teachers.
- Let your child know that reading is an important part of preparing for college. Children who read from a wide selection of books, newspapers, and magazines build background knowledge and do better in school.
